

End Time Personal Notes

June 2013

The good man is perished out of the earth: and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood; they hunt every man his brother with a net. That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, the prince asketh, and the judge asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth his mischievous desire: so they wrap it up. The best of them is as a brier: the most upright is sharper than a thorn hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh; now shall be their perplexity.

*Trust ye not in a friend, put ye not confidence in a guide: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom. For the son dishonoureth the father, the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter in law against her mother in law; a man's enemies are the men of his own house.

*Therefore I will look unto the LORD; I will wait for the God of my salvation: my God will hear me.
(Mic 7:2-7)*

End-Time Personal Notes

These are dangerous times and I think those of you who have been regenerated by the Spirit of God know it. Christ foretold of it and made it plain.

*Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword. For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter in law against her mother in law. And a man's foes shall be they of his own household. He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me. He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.
(Mat 10:34-39)*

These are hard sayings. And Christ often made these hard sayings knowing that many would cease to follow him once he said them. He was winnowing the wheat from the chaff. He was separating those who wanted comfortable 'politically correct' religion from those who truly wanted into the Kingdom of God and yearned for it. In one instance the Apostle John records the reaction of his disciples to one of Christ's sayings.

*Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?
(Joh 6:60)*

Let me say this now because what I have to say is going to make some folks scratch their heads but some of you I know are dealing with some very difficult family situations; Ne'er do well husbands, wives hooked on drugs; kids screwed up or older folks dealing with older children who are forced to return home because they can only find minimum wage work. You indeed have a duty and obligation to your family, wives and husbands. Yet you are strictly forbidden to let those obligations get in the way of your walk with God. Christ must come first in all things. If your 30 year old son who returned home is selling dope out of your house, you need to get him to stop or kick him out. Why? Because he is placing you at spiritual and temporal risk. The devil would like nothing better than to put you in jail. "49 year old Christian Mother and Son busted in $5 Million Drug Raid", would be the headline. Many people don't know that they can seize your house if someone is dealing drugs out of it with the laws they have on the books today and they don't even have to charge you with a crime to do it with.

What is my point? If your wife or husband is sleeping around on you and you don't want to divorce him, you better think twice about having sex with him/her. A physical separation may be in order until you can sort things out. Who knows what diseases you are going to catch sleeping with a promiscuous spouse? Today, some of them you can't get rid of and others can kill you dead. YOUR RELATIONSHIPS ARE KEY. Who you hang out with are key Who you trust is key. Can two walk together unless they be agreed?

*"and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them; for the things which are done by them in secret it is a shame even to speak of."
Ephesians 5:11-12*

You, as a blood bought member of the body of Christ have an obligation to stand for Christ and to let every weight and stumbling block go by the wayside. This is why Christ made it plain in some cases that those who followed him had to leave all of those familial relationships behind. It wasn't true in all cases, but was in some. With one man, he would not even let him bury his father. Could you hear the Pharisee's (religious hypocrites) render their satanic accusations at Christ for this?! It's sad because today, I can hear the Pharisees so very clearly in a great many Christian leaders and false, backslidden and apostate 'brethren'.

*And he said unto another, Follow me. But he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father. Jesus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead: but go thou and preach the kingdom of God. And another also said, Lord, I will follow thee; but let me first go bid them farewell, which are at home at my house. And Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.
(Luk 9:59-62)*

Family First? This is one of the main themes of a popular Christian ministry heard nationwide. But the Apostle Paul made it plain that it was clearly better not to marry. Not that those who married had sinned, it is just that marriage is a full time job and a married man is going to have a lot of difficulty serving Christ. On a personal level, I wish I could tell you that was the main reason I never married, it isn't. But I do think it is one of the reasons God never really wanted me to. I rejected Marriage because I never wanted to be divorced. Again relationships are key and who a man marries and the result of it says a great deal about the man's spiritual state.

Relationships are important. I don't hand out my friendship to people easily, in fact I rarely do and then it is only built up over years and years. In short, it's an earned privileged and once withdrawn is never handed back again. Part of it is, I admit, a personality trait. I don't easily trust people. I have learned that in the School of Hard Knocks and in my doctoral work from the "University of Actual Experience" that only a fool trusts blindly. You want my trust? You are going to have to earn it. Some are certainly trustworthy but in our nation in these times, most are not. They are too often superficial, flaky and love money and social acceptance among other superficials too much. If mocking you, denigrating you behind your back is socially acceptable to them, they will do it... and smile in your face the following day like they are your friend. A friend like that is like a pair of shoes without any soles on the bottom, What use are they?

I always watch the little things. If you cannot trust folks to keep their promises on small things, I will never trust them with big ones. Americans too often will smile in your face and then evilly talk about you behind your back. A Real friend will have your back, not look for an opportunity to put a knife in it. I think a wife (or husband) must be a true friend first and a lover second because when you are old - it's the bond of deep respect and trust that is more akin to friendship than emotional/sexual passion that hold people together for 30, 40 and 50 years. What kind of wife or husband will your potential spouse make? Find out how he treats his friends and business associates. Can he be an A-number one as-hole at times? Does he or she have a serious attitude problem? Are they hard headed and won't take good advice? Does he or she keep his word and promises? Or does he or she conveniently make up excuses as to why they don't have to. Can they face their own faults or do they develop a convenient memory when they know they have been told to do something and just won't do it? Sooner or later that is how he or she is going to treat and deal with you. Is he or she forgiving, positive and encouraging with his or her buddies? That too will translate later in your marriage. Don't marry a Jackass, or a Divorce Whore (a woman who butters up a guy who has money, marry's him and whose sole reason for doing so is to take him to the cleaners in a divorce case). Check the character of the people you hang out with and ask yourself if they really have Christlike integrity. I am not talking about gravitating to people who use the mainline Christo-babble (trendy mainline Christian talk) you hear in the mouths of so many Christians, but check how they really behave. Is there honesty, integrity, truthfulness, love real love and encouragement in them, or faultfinding, fingerpointing, arrogance and personality that emanates a 'social flatulence'. How often do they put on their 'a--hole hat' and do they ever really take it off?

*..there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.
(Pro 18:24b)*

But sadly, too often your own family is ready to stab you in the back. I can think of a family I grew up with. Some wonderful people I have always loved. But when the Dad died one of the kids (the one who was most loyal and kind to the dad) got screwed out of all of his inheritance. It is hard for me now to have much respect for those that did that to him because the brother who got screwed doesn't have a mean bone in his body. He is the nicest guy you ever want to meet. He really is. But it just goes to show you that Familial ties are really of little importance. For those of us on the way to life, we must put those relationships in their proper perspective. But if you can keep strong ties with your family over the years, I think those ties can be very, very important and rewarding. It is worth the extra effort to keep those ties when practicable.

On a personal note I have always had a good sense about people and with only one exception of all the women I dated, I am certain that divorce would have been the result of the long term relationships I had if they had resulted in Marriage. For me it was always this: I would much rather stay single than be divorced. I was never going to go through that...ever. On a side note, it is said that this is one of the reasons Queen Elizabeth I never married. That and the fact that she equated Marriage with death. I saw what happened to our family and how my mother changed when my Dad left us and how very, very hard it was for her and how raising us and all those hours at work slowly wore her down though she was always positive and did her utmost to never let us know how hard it was for her. Those years left an indelible mark on me. She did her best to hide those struggles from all of us but while I was young and rather immature for my age, I saw it clearly and could remember how sad it would make me.

I would say to each of you get a sense for those around you, family and otherwise. I hate to say this but in the days that are coming I know many of you will have truly wished you had listened to this advice: Stay away from negative people and those who have no love for Christ. If they never have anything positive to say or are always fault finding or doing their best to stir up trouble... I think you know the type... put them out of your life... permanently. You are going to need every ounce of encouragement to survive the times that have already started for millions of Americans and Europeans. Stay away from those false brethren. They may say they are Christian but don't even know the basics about God and Christ and have no desire to open their bibles but rather want to watch the NFL, make your exit quietly, graciously, peacefully and permanently. Carefully measure what I will call the 'stumbling block' effect of all of your relationships. If you don't take heed to this advice you are going to be in a world of hurt when the time comes. - I have warned you. Don't come crying to me if your doped up 25 year old son burns down your house around you and then points the finger at you and says you did it.

What I am not saying is to hate any of these kinds of people or to hold yourself aloof in a 'holier than thou' sort of way. I am saying that let God be your guide in all of your relationships and ask him to remove relational stumbling blocks in your life. You are on a spiritual battlefield. And your enemy, the devil, will use relationships to get to you, cast stumbling blocks in your path and try to get you off the path to life or do his best to level accusations against you. No soldier willing walks into a minefield, so don't you do it by consorting and consulting with the enemy's unwitting (and often witless) foot soldiers. Do you have a brother who is a devil worshiper? Stay away from him. Do you have a son who is a major dope dealer? Keep him at arms length. Do you have members of your family who constantly mock your walk with Christ and whose whole countenance changes when they rave against you? Be on your guard, there may be deep satanic activity there. I speak from experience. I have seen too much evil coming from those who claim to love me. I am not going to wait around to get a bullet in my back as an expression of their deep love and affection. In the times that are almost here, we know that violence will reach a crescendo and law and order will one day break down and the love of many will grow cold. Some folks are best loved at a distance. Others up close and personal. Me, I may be forced SOLELY by Christian duty to have loved men like Himmler and Hitler as Christ loved all sinners but there was no way I would ever even think about hanging out with them.

Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel? And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

(2Co 6:14-18)

You who are wise may discern this message at your will. Reject it if you wish. But what I will tell you is this. Things are going to get ugly and the ugliest side of the American spirit will one day show itself in full anti-Christ fashion. We are going to be targets and today we can see the rising Gestapo state being erected under our first African American President. They could never have accomplished this if the President were White. Because he is Black and a democrat those who would ordinarily speak up and cry aloud about it, are silent.

To sin by silence when they should protest makes cowards of men.
- Abraham Lincoln

Today, America is filled with cowards, and only a very few men. The only thing they protest is when the NFL game is blacked out.

The Nazi's of today chose their President well. Don't get me wrong, Obama is not an evil man per se, but he is more that willing to shake hands with the devil to get power and fall down before the devils altar when he wants satan's services. Part of his satanic deal now clearly appears to have been to bring in all the spying tools of the Third Reich and update them with all of the latest technology and subvert corporate America into a fascist business/espionage model in the process. Just like the Nazi's. I will be honest with you. I just don't think he really knew who he was dealing with at first. I really don't. But I think he does now.

When the devil comes after you, in many cases he is going to use your family against you. They did it in Nazi Germany and they are going to do it here. The devil is erecting his system of persecution right before our eyes. Wiser heads will prepare themselves accordingly.

And the brother shall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the child: and the children shall rise up against their parents, and cause them to be put to death. And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but he that endureth to the end shall be saved.
(Mat 10:21-22)
